

CASE STUDY • STONEYWOOD COMMUNITY PROJECT CIC

Stoneywood Care Services discovered CVS Falkirk through the Community Care and Health Forum (CCHF).

They wanted to offer work experience to their clients, and realised that the best way would be to do it themselves. However, they were unsure as to how to do so.

While attending a CCHF meeting, they learned about the range of services offered by CVS Falkirk, including support to social enterprises. As a result, they created the Stoneywood Community Project CIC (Community Interest Company).

“CVS Falkirk have always been very helpful,” says Robert Ramsay, Work Project Manager. “We worked with them a lot on setting up as a CIC, and now we’re getting support with funding applications.”

“We wouldn’t change a thing.”

Robert also applauds CVS Falkirk’s signposting abilities, calling the team “a great source of information”.

“We wouldn’t be where we are without CVS Falkirk”

“They’re like a one-stop shop,” Robert says. “If I have a question, and they don’t know the answer, they know someone who will.”

“We’ve been more than satisfied with the services and support CVS Falkirk have given us.”
