4. Presentation on Hate Crime and Third Party Reporting – Arun Gopinath (AG), CSREC
The 2 representatives from CSREC introduced themselves to the forum and gave a quick overview of what will be discussed during the meeting and what their organisation provides.

The presentation given can be found on the Safer Communities webpage http://www.cvsfalkirk.org.uk/voice-of-the-sector/community-safety-forum/

The following key points were noted from the presentation.

- Central Scotland Region Equality Council’s (CSREC) aim is to promote equality, tackle discrimination, community cohesion and promote good relations with different minorities.
• CSREC has held various events over the Forth Valley area such as information and entertainment events to help bring the communities together.
• On Friday 4th November CSREC will be holding an African themed winter event with African food, fashion, music, children activities, information stalls and free health checks.
• There are now 9 legislations merged into the Equality Act 2010 which details various kinds of discrimination.
• Since January 2016 there have been 13 reports of hate crime in the Forth Valley area.
• A person who has committed a hate crime may be subject to higher jail sentencing.
• Third party reporting is to report a hate crime to an organisation that has a third party reporting centre to make service users feel safer to report hate crimes. Service users can also do this anonymously to a certain extent.
• Third party reporting has received positive feedback from service users who have used it to report hate crime.
• There are 16 third party reporting centres over the Forth Valley area.

5. Discussion of Current Issues
During this agenda item forum members are given the chance to discuss current issues that are relevant to the forum or their individual organisations.

5.1 Falkirk Council Community Justice Partnership
DW gave the forum an overview of Community Justice and its aims for the near future.

• A new act has been put in place for Community Justice over Scotland.
• Falkirk Council is currently focusing on Community Justice in the Falkirk District area, which will include improving outcomes of Community Justice to stop previous offenders reoffending by building partnerships.
• Scottish Government is currently working on a new plan and will submit the plan to the Community Justice Partnership, it is hoped the new plan will be in place by Saturday 1st April 2017.
• Scottish Governments new plan will include 7 outcome themes.
• Community Justice Partnership projects within the Falkirk District area aim to make the experience better for previous offenders.
• It is hoped that the third sector will help alongside Community Justice Partnership to progress the work that is currently underway.
• Falkirk Council Community Justice Partnership will also be doing an Annual Review which is hoped to be published in the coming months.
• With the new Community Empowerment Act in place this has helped develop work experience linked with the local colleges in the communities to help gain working skills for the service user.
• Community Justice is aimed to:
  1. Improve the communities understanding and participation in
  2. Plan, work and fund activities together to address people's needs and stop reoffending
  3. Make sure that people affected by Community Justice have equal access to the services they require
  4. Design and deliver services that are based on evidence of what works and tailor those services to the needs of the individual service user
6. Discussion of Themes for 2017
